GAME RULES

In Baccarat (also known as Player/Banker), the player's objective is to predict which hand - Player or Banker (Dealer) - will have the highest value, or whether there will be a tie. The game score can have a maximum value of 9 and this is obtained after two or three cards dealt.

SPECIFIC GAME RULES

- After the bet is placed, two cards are dealt to the Player's game and two cards to the Banker's game alternately.
- If the value of the Player's game is between 0 and 5, a third card will be dealt to it. According to the value of the third card and the score of the Banker's game, the dealer may also be dealt a third card. [see section The Third Card].
- If the Player has a game of value 8 or 9, it is considered to be a natural and automatically wins, unless the Banker's game also has 8 or 9.

GAME RULES

- When a hand contains cards whose sum exceeds 9, one must subtract 10 points from that value. For example, if you have 15 points, you should consider that the total is 5, since values that are greater than 9 should always remove 10 points.

CARDS

- In this game, 8 decks of 52 cards each are used. The cards are always shuffled at the end of each round.
- 2 to 9 - Cards with these values have exact match in points.
- Jack, Queen, King and 10 - The “figures” and 10 have a value of zero points.
- Ace - Worth 1 point.
- The suit has no influence on the game.

BETS AND GAMEPLAY

In Baccarat, the player's action in the game occurs at the moment of betting.

- There are 3 betting areas and 5 chips worth the local currency correspondent value.
- The player can bet any amount and in any area as long as he respects the minimum and maximum bet limits, established by the game.
- The maximum bet amounts are as follows:
  - At the player or at the banker, up to 70 times the minimum bet amount;
  - In the tie, up to 15 times the minimum bet amount.
- The player can bet simultaneously on the chance of Player and Banker, as long as the difference in value between both bets is equal or higher than the minimum bet.
- After placing the chips, the player simply needs to click DEAL to start the game.
